On August 25th of 2025, the United States ambassador William W. Popp visited Gulu City to view the work of a local organization. He then came to GTI-U to visit. During the visit, there were 12 students in participation, 2 trainers and our CEO, Ruth Atim. GTI-U informed him about the ICT Bootcamps that we host for children to acquire the digital skills and literacy they need for their future educations and schooling. He met the 12 participants of the bootcamp, and took photos with them as well.

Gender Tech Initiative Uganda is a non-profit organization dedicated to bridging the digital divide by empowering women, girls, and marginalized communities with digital literacy and safety skills. We envision a world where technology is inclusive, accessible, and transformative, enabling individuals to participate meaningfully in the digital economy and advocate for their rights.
